

Jewish Care is leading contemporary aged care with its Hand-in-Hand™ model.

Hand-in-Hand™ caters for the diverse preferences of our community, supporting healthy ageing, and adjusting to individual needs as they change over time.

By creating genuine small household environments, 'family' groups form naturally and make the new living experience familiar and homelike. Each house has its own lounge, dining room, kitchen, and recreational spaces, including outdoor terraces, promoting inclusion and engagement.

Food is so important to both human connection and Jewish culture, and that's why a Kosher kitchen is a central feature in all of our houses. Fresh food is always available and if they choose, elders are encouraged to get involved in preparing meals the way they like them.

A dedicated team of trained staff is always nearby to provide personal care and daily support, and to encourage involvement in social and leisure activities. The presence of the same staff for each small group, builds strong, trusted relationships and familiarity in daily life.

Welcome to residential aged care, just like home

Experience Jewish Care's Hand-in-Hand™ model.

The freedom to feel at home.

With Hand-in-Hand™, elders continue to do the things they want to do, and are able to do, with the confidence that support is always nearby.

The freedom to choose.

At Jewish Care, elders choose what they want to do, when they want to do it.

2

A stable, dedicated team providing support.

Support is on hand around the clock.
Our staff, of highly trained Registered Nurses and Elder Support Workers, are committed to ensuring each elder can lead the life they choose.

3

Small households.

Smaller households designed with a central kitchen, dining,
living and outdoor areas,
just as a home should be.

Our Hand-In-Hand™ model of care is available
